

CAPA Online Education Program

Special Topic Lectures

Call for speakers

The CAPA Online Education Program plans to have special topic lectures on each subspecialty. Volunteer experts from every subspecialty are needed. The target audience will be junior attending faculty members and general pathologists who want to update their knowledge, as well as senior residents and fellows. The volunteers can choose your own topic(s) of interest. Speakers will be selected by the CAPA Education Committee and/or invited by the Online Education Subcommittee to facilitate this lecture series. The lectures will be given in the weekends and the presentation is usually 1-2 hours in the Saturday evenings. We will try our best to accommodate the speaker's schedule. Experts of any pathology subspecialty can volunteer.

We urgently need experts in genitourinary (GU) and gastrointestinal (GI, not limited to GI lumen) pathology field to give lectures. GU and GI pathologists please send your name, academic title and subject(s) of your topic to Dr. Linsheng Zhang <linsheng.zhang@emory.edu> before April 15, 2017.

The contents/presentations of the lectures will not be electronically distributed unless approved by the speakers. Please note that this is a completely free educational program supported by volunteers. There will be no reimbursement to the speakers in any form whatsoever. Thank you very much for your interest!

Chinese American Pathologists Association (CAPA), Online Education Subcommittee

Chair: Linsheng Zhang

Co-Chairs: Zenggang Pan, Limin Yu